EAGLE HOTEL GOES BACK TO GEO. EBERHART

Landlord's Warrant For $4,000 Rental Obtained Against Hartmann.

FIVE-YEAR LEASE IS SURRENDERED

A landlord's warrant demanding payment of $4,000 rental obtained by George Eberhart, owner of the Eagle hotel, and served Thursday on the leesee, Charles J. Hartmann, proprietor of the Eagle the last year and a half, by Constable George Aughinbaugh, has caused Mr. Hartmann to surrender his lease on the Eagle and he plans to leave Gettysburg Saturday with his family.

The Hartmanns will go to Pittsburgh for a visit with relatives and friends. Mr. Hartmann does not have anything definite in view as to future plans, but states that he is considering several hotel possibilities and hopes to become permanently located in the management of another hostelry in Pennsylvania in the near future.

When he leased the Eagle on a five-year basis, Mr. Hartmann states that he invested approximately $15,000 in new fixtures and furnishings and decorations, and it is against these fixtures that Mr. Eberhart has obtained the lien for rent. Mr. Hartmann contracted to pay $6,000 a year rental.

Blames Depression

"Located as it is on the Lincoln Highway, I was convinced that the Eagle hotel offered an excellent opportunity to make some money under careful, conservative management. However, I did not figure on the general business depression becoming as bad as it is and affecting travel in general, and it has been impossible to make ends meet," Mr. Hartmann told a Times reporter today. He said he hoped to arrange his affairs so that in the near future he could take care of any outstanding obligations he has in Gettysburg.

Before coming to Gettysburg, Mr. Hartmann had a successful career as a food expert and a hotel operator in Uniontown, Pittsburgh and Johnstown.

Mr. Eberhart will resume management of the Eagle and it is understood that Harry Holtzworth will return to the hostelry with him as clerk. Public sale of the Hartmann property at the hotel will be held by Constable Aughinbaugh August 10 to satisfy the rental lien.

Seeks Store Rent

Constable George B. Aughinbaugh this afternoon levied upon the local store of the American hat shops, incorporated, Carlisle street, on a landlord's warrant for $180 rent due the Hotel Gettysburg company. The hat shop was closed several weeks ago when the company was adjudged insolvent. Headquarters of the concern is in Baltimore.

The sale is scheduled for August 11.

WEATHER REPORT

Fair tonight and Saturday. Somewhat cooler tonight.

To the Editor of The Times:

Beverly Hills, Calif., July 31.—I've been getting some papers sent to me from up in the northwest and I am telling you from the pictures these grasshoppers have laid that country lower than the Farm Board. They just swarm onto a place like farmers at a free barbecue and leave about as little. There is one thing to be said for the grasshopper, he has generally operated in republican territory. Kansas has been ruined by 'em as often as by their politicians, so that's why the democrats have never paid the bugs much attention, in fact, kinder urged 'em on, but they never even prayed for anything like this to happen.

MANY SEEKING CABIN SITES IN STATE FORESTS

Demand Greater This Year Than For Any Previous Period Since Start.

MOUNTAIN HOMES SOUGHT BY MANY

Unusual demands for camp sites in the state forests during the present year are reported by officials of the department of forests and waters, who said today that 136 camp sites had been granted for erection of private camp buildings during the first half of the year. Twenty-four hundred and eighteen camp sites are now under lease to citizens of Pennsylvania on the state forests.

The number of camp sites granted during the first seven months of 1931 was more than twice the number granted for the same period last year, and the greatest number during a like period since the leasing of state forest camp sites was authorized in 1913.

Surveys Made

In connection with land purchases for extension of the state forests, one of the first things done is to take a survey of the area with regard to recreational use. The demand for private camp site leases has been so great that the department is obliged to hold applications for camps on newly acquired lands until this recreational survey has been made.

The unusual beauty of certain locations, combined with their topography, accessibility and suitability for general recreational purposes, necessitates that they be reserved for the public as parks or public camp grounds. After these areas have been set aside all available private camp sites are open to selection.

First Come, First Served

The method of setting aside camp sites is illustrated by the plan followed along the lake frontage on a number of state forest lakes where the department surveyed small plots and numbered them in advance, after sufficient space had been reserved for the public. Private camp site applicants could then choose their camp sites from these restricted recreational areas under the rule "first come, first served." The plan not only simplified administration of camp sites, but has been found to be heartily approved in actual practice by camp site lesses themselves.

Persons interested in securing sites on the state forests for erection of summer homes, sportsmen's cabins or other camp buildings are advised to get in touch with the department of forests and waters at Harrisburg or any of the twenty-four district foresters throughout the state. Information on the camp site program is contained in circular 34, "State Forest Camp Sites in Pennsylvania." Copies of this circular will be mailed free upon request.

JUDGE O'DUNNE STARTS BATTLE

Jurist Summering At Blue Ridge Summit Begins Controversy.

Judge Eugene O'Dunne, Baltimore, who is living at a summer cottage at Blue Ridge Summit at the present, started open warfare between the judiciary and the state's attorney's office in Baltimore Thursday afternoon when in an order sent from his summer home, he asked that all gambling cases be assigned to his court.

Not two hours after it had been received, an official of the state's attorney's office assigned for trial next week in another court two gambling cases. They were held off the docket.

The difficulty started last week when the jurist, in a letter to the state's attorney, asked that all such cases be assigned to his court as he had made a specialty of them, and that a definite policy had been formed. He offered to return from his summer home at any time to sit at the trials.

Mr. O'Conor replied that he could not comply with the request on the ground that it would be discourteous to the other judges on the supreme bench.

Judge O'Dunne replied with another note which the state's attorney interpreted as alleging a "hidden hand" dictated the assignments.

Charges and Counter-Charges Fly At Hearing on Assault Case Here

Mother Of 14-year-old Girl Alleges Paul Frazer, 14, Pushed Her Daughter Off Platform And Broke Her Arm; Others Declare Girl Slipped.

Justice of the Peace John C. Shealer sought to bring about a settlement of a charge of assault and battery brought by Mrs. Fannie B. Snyder, York street, of behalf of her daughter, Alice, 14, against Paul Frazer, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Frazer, East Middle street, when a preliminary hearing was held this morning.

Witnesses for the plaintiff, including Alice Snyder, Mrs. Frank Redding and Mrs. Max Yingling, Gettysburg, testified that Paul Frazer pushed the Snyder girl from a platform at the Burgoon and Yingling canning factory on July 24, causing the child to break her left arm.

Defense witnesses testified that Snyder girl aroused Frazer by throwing water on him, and that when he sought to take a can from her hand she slipped and fell from the platform. They denied that the Frazer boy threw her from the platform.

The defendant's witnesses included Mrs. Georgie Baker, Mrs. Cora Sease, Hattie Woodward, Emma Woodward, Mary Brady, Alverta Arents and Violet Menchey.

The magistrate gave the two parties until August 14 to reach an agreement out of court.

Pastor to Recall Early History Of Church In Sunday Sermon

The Rev. L. B. Hafer, pastor of York Springs Lutheran charge, will preach a historical sermon Sunday morning, taking note of the centennial of the founding of the York Springs congregation.

The church was organized June 26, 1831, and became the center of a large parish, including Bender's church, Upper Bermudian, the Pines and Lower Bermudian, all older churches. It became known as the Petersburg charge, that being the name of the village in the beginning, which later took the name of York Springs.

The fact was not known in the congregation that this is the centennial year until about three weeks ago, when the pastor secured the original records of the congregation and contemporary records of the charge. Since then a study of the history has been made by examination of these records, by reference to the old files of the West Pennsylvania synod, and a comparison of data from the history of the synod and the history of the Gettysburg seminary.

All Seminary Men

The church has been served by twenty pastors, nearly all of whom were graduates of the Gettysburg seminary. Three pastors were educated elsewhere, but rendered a comparatively short period of service.

The parish from the beginning took a prominent place in the annals of the synod, though in later years it was outgrown by the growing churches in the larger towns. Just before the Civil War the charge, which from time to time included other churches, consisted of six churches, and had the largest communicant membership among the pastorates of the synod. The second pastor, the Rev. Charles K. Weyl, was secretary of the synod, and for a short time acting president. The third pastor, the Rev. John Ulrich was president of the synod for the years 1853, 1854 and 1855.

The present pastor, the Rev. L. B. Hafer, while residing in Gettysburg, has been in charge of the field, now made up of York Springs, Chestnut Grove and Lower Bermudian, for a little more than five years. These three churches have composed the charge since January 1, 1889.

REMODEL SCHOOL

The contracts for the improvements to be made to the grade school building in Arendtsville have been let. The plans call for the remodeling of the interior to provide three rooms instead of two, a heat plant and lighting. Calvin Thomas, of Arendtsville, was awarded the contract for the carpentry work; Herbert Oyler, of Gettysburg, the one for the lighting and Robert Peters, of Bendersville, the contract for the heat plant and its installation.

Duncan's Article In Literary Digest

Under the heading, "Picking An All-Time Emperor of the Diamond," the current issue of The Literary Digest quotes at length from an article by C. William Duncan, Philadelphia columnist, which appeared in the feature section of the Sunday Philadelphia Public Ledger recently.

The jury of twelve men, seven of whom picked Ty Cobb as the greatest player of all time, comprised John McGraw, Wilbert Robinson, Walter Johnson, Connie Mack, Kid Gleason, Bill McKechnie, Joe McCarthy, Jim Burke, Gabby Street, Dan Howley, Bucky Harris and Burt Shotton.

Gettysburg Youth, Shot By Unknown Assailant, Crawls Mile And Half To Get Aid

WOUNDED MAN FAINTS THREE TIMES AS HE GOES FOR HELP

Shot through the right lung at the Marsh Creek hunting club camp in the South Mountains, Thursday evening, Hershel Deardorff, 23, of Gettysburg, walked and crawled a mile and a half to Newman's park, along the Lincoln highway, where he collapsed on the porch.

Three young Chambersburg men, who were at Newman's park and realized the seriousness of Deardorff's condition, brought the wounded man to the Warner hospital where he was in a serious condition today.

Deardorff told physicians, who dressed his wound at the hospital, that he was at the hunting camp's spring, which is only a short distance from the cottage, when he felt a stinging sensation in his right chest, and that soon he saw blood discolor his shirt. He said he heard no shot fired, although this seems well night impossible inasmuch as the bullet passed through the young man's body and must have been fired from close range.

Shot Before Dusk

The young man was shot just before dark, about 7 o'clock. Deardorff went to the cabin where he pressed a towel against the wound and providing himself with a flashlight he started to the highway.

The continual loss of blood caused young Deardorff to faint three or four times while he painfully made his way to the main highway, sometimes walking and other times crawling. When Deardorff reached Newman's park at 8:30 o'clock, he collapsed on the porch.

A call was turned in for the Gettysburg ambulance, but three young Chambersburg men, who were working at the park and noticed that Deardorff was becoming weaker, decided to take him to the hospital.

Saw Intruder

In his weakened condition, Deardorff could not give much information about the shooting when he was admitted to the hospital. He told Earl Deatrick, Broadway, a member of the Marsh Creek hunting camp, that he saw someone at the camp, but the wounded young man said he did not know who it was.

Corporal Joseph Holochwost, of the local sub-station of the state police, who is conducting an investigation into the shooting, and Mr. Deatrick planned to quiz the youth at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the hope of securing further light on the shooting.

Shooting Mysterious

Friends of the young man know of no enemies he may have had and are at loss for an explanation of the shooting. Some of the young man's friends say he may have been hit by a stray bullet while others hold the belief that would-be robbers shot him, although this theory is not given much credence by the police.

Deardorff, who works at odd jobs around Gettysburg, had been living at the Marsh Creek hunting camp for two months. He was given a home there by members of the camp after the place had been broken into on several occasions and practically everything of value taken.

Shot In Back

The young man is believed to have been shot through the back as the bullet hole on that side of his body is smaller than the place the ball left his chest. The bullet passed through the lung, but it is not believed to have damaged that organ to any great extent inasmuch as no hemorrhage was produced. Physicians said gun shot wounds through the chest are not always fatal.

After state police had been notified of the shooting, Corporal Holochwost and several members of the Marsh Creek hunting camp went to their cabin in the mountains and conducted an investigation, but found no definite clues.

Deardorff is a son of Mrs. Gertrude Snyder (Deardorff) Work, of Galena, Ohio. He has been living in Gettysburg about four years, working in restaurants and doing odd jobs about town. Before members of the Marsh Creek hunting camp gave Deardorff a home, he had been sleeping in automobiles.

Capture Driver After Long Chase

Baltimore Man Becomes Muddled In Square; Officers Arrest Him In Biglerville.

Leroy I. Murphy, 28, of Baltimore, paid a fine of $10 and costs on a charge of reckless driving when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Neil W. Gibson early this morning. The information was laid by Officer John Keller.

Murph is alleged to have started away from Mitchell's restaurant, center square, by going out Carlisle street instead of circling the grass plot. The officer told him to go around center square, and the driver obeyed.

Later Officer Keller was informed that Murphy and a companion had been drinking, and the officer and Constable C. A. Fox drove out the Biglerville road and overtook the Baltimorean near Biglerville, bringing him back to face a charge of reckless driving.

London, July 31 (AP)—Lord Kylsant, one of the most prominent figures in British business and finance, was convicted Thursday in old Bailey criminal court of being concerned in the publication of a Royal Mail steam packet company prospectus which he knew to be false.

He was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment in the second division, which allows him certain privileges, such as receiving visitors and mail. He is a director of the Royal Mail company. He was acquitted of two other charges connected with the publication of allegedly misleading company reports.

The 68-year-old peer, one of the tallest men in England, listened as if in a dream as the judge pronounced sentence. His face was white and haggard and he seemed hardly to realize where he was until a warder tapped him on the shoulder and guided him to a cell below the court.

Capone To Get Trial After All

Chicago, July 31 (9P).—Scarface Al Capone was permitted to withdraw his pleas of guilty to evasion of income taxes today by Judge James H. Wilkerson.

The court reserved decision on the gangster's motion to change his plea on the indictment for conspiring against prohibition, and calling the federal grand jury before him, called it to review the 5000 offenses with a view of reindicting Capone on charges carrying a heavy penalty.

The gangster has another five weeks of grace before he is arraigned again on September 8.

At that time Judge Wilkerson will set the income tax cases for trial, probably the last week of September, and will rule on the plea in the liquor indictment.

SHOT-GUN RULE

New York, July 31 (AP).—In relentless war against the gangster baby shooters of Little Italy, Police Commissioner Mulrooney announced that the sidewalks of New York would go under shot-gun rule at 6 o'clock tonight.

CAPONE ASKS TO WITHDRAW PLEA

Attorney Declares Official Agreed He Should Get Light Sentence.

Chicago, July 31 (AP)—"Scarface Al" Capone, dreading a stiffer prison sentence than had been anticipated, begged leave in federal district court Thursday to change his mind and stand trial on twin charges of income tax dodging and violation of the liquor laws

The move to change his previous plea of "guilty" to "not guilty" was made dramatically at the opening of the afternoon session of Judge James H. Wilkerson's court, Attorney Michael Ahern uttering a protest that Capone had assurance the government would recommend leniency if he pleaded guilty to the three indictments.

In doubt as to the propriety of a change at this point, Judge Kilkerson called upon government and defense to explain such a purported bargain, warned that the court could condone no agreement on its judgment and adjourned the session until today, promising to rule on the motion to withdraw the plea at 2 p. m.

Gangster Nervous In Court

The heavy-set gangster, beads of sweat rolling down his swarthy face, stood nervously twitching his hands before the bench, manifestly taken aback by the turn of the proceedings. He had anticipated a quick sentence, a night perhaps in the county jail and departure for Leavenworth prison tonight with the regular contingent of federal prisoners. Attorney Ahern made it clear Capone would not have pleaded guilty without assurance the government had agreed to a light sentence.

Capone's counsel asserted the department of justice had sanctioned a proposal of George E. Q. Johnson, district attorney, that leniency be suggested. Questioned by the court, Johnson said he had conferred with the defense, agreed to certain recommendations and received the approval of Washington. He submitted the correspondence with the attorney general to Judge Wilkerson, who said he would hold it confidential.

Sentence Agreed Upon, Is Claim

Ahern declared the government and defense had agreed upon a stipulated prison term and to have all sentences run concurrently.

Pinchot Opposes Miners' Eviction

Harrisburg, July 31 (AP).—A telegram in which Governor Pinchot advised B. M. Clark, general manager of the Melvetia Coal company, Indiana, that proposed evictions of miners are "barbarous and will be condemned by decent people everywhere" was made public today at the executive offices here.

The telegram follows: "I am informed you propose to evict 67 miners because they have become members of the United Mine workers of America and have demanded a check payment. These men have planted gardens about their houses and these gardens are beginning to yield them food. The proposed eviction will not only deprive them of homes but also of food. I beg of you to use ordinary humanity in dealing with these families. If you evict them your action will inevitably add bitterness and strife to a situation already tense. I ask you in the name of common decency to let the families remain."

SERVICES CHANGED

Scores Collapse At Reading Park After Picnic Supper on Thursday

Reading, July 31 (AP)—Eleven persons are in Reading hospital, two of them in critical condition, as the result of ptomaine poisoning received Thursday while picnicking in Carsonia Park. More that a score of other persons, it was reported, suffered less serious attacks and were able to be taken home.

Starting about 7 p. m., picnickers, many of them from Lancaster attending an automobile club outing, started to collapse in all parts of the park and writhe about on the ground in agony. Some were taken off the merry-go-round, and other rides; some tried to get to the first aid station; some swooned in the midway.

Four highway patrolmen who happened to drop in at the park saved the lives of many of the victims and prevented a panic when thousands rushed about the victims near the first aid station.

Those in Hospitals

The victims in the hospitals are:

Mrs. H. B. Wolf, 43, of Akron, Her condition was reported late Thursday night at Reading hospital to be critical.

Miss Mabel Norris, 29, of Reading, a waitress in a restaurant at the park. She also is in a critical condition in Reading hospital.

H. B. Wolf, 44, of Akron.

Mrs. Frank H. Echternoch, 43, of Lancaster.

Andrew Brenneman, 15, of Millersville.

Mrs. Clara White, 48, of Denver.

Paul White, 14, her son.

Miss Jean Norris, 29, Reading, also a waitress in the restaurant.

Patty Caffarfillo, 18, of Stony Creek Mills, whose arm was broken when he collapsed on the midway.

Mrs. Carrie Brubaker, 25, of Lancaster.

Miss Irene Rhoner, 36, Lancaster R. D. 3.

According to reports, the first to become ill, were waitresses. Even before an ambulance could be called for them, reports were received at the restaurant that others were swooning in all parts of the park.

All Ambulances Summoned

All available ambulances were summoned and the clanging of ambulance bells to the park and return caused additional excitement all along the route.

FIND TARGET OF GANGSTER LEAD

Mulrooney Orders His Men To Be First On Draw With Hoodlums.

New York, July 31 (AP)—The admission of Anthony Buzzone, a bookmaker known as Big Tee, that he was the intended target of the gangsters who sprayed death into the ranks of playing children Tuesday was regarded Thursday night by police as their "big clue" in the search for the killers.

Buzzone also was declared to have furnished detectives with a list of men he thought were in the automobile from which was fired a leaden hail wounding five children, one of them fatally.

Squads of detectives Thursday night were trying to round up the underworld characters named.

Meanwhile police found an abandoned green sedan with a broken left window which answered the description of the automobile used in the shooting.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney, talking to 1200 members of the department at a mass meeting, called the shooting "a dastardly killing and maiming of children," and told his men:

Cops To Shoot To Kill

"In the first six months of this year the police have killed sixteen racketeers and holdup men and wounded six, but apparently this is not enough.

"I don't want you to exhibit any hesitations when you come upon a man known to be a racketeer. Don't be the last on the draw. If it should happen we know who is responsible for the 107th street killing and we should come upon him, have no hesitation in giving it to him, and giving it to him above the waist. If I meet him I will not hesitate."

Mayor Walker told the bluecoats to "call upon the Almighty to give you superhuman power to bring to justice the dogs responsible for this killing."

Man To Get Woman Magistrate's Post

New York, July 31.—Mayor Walker has announced he will pick a man to fill the place of former Magistrate Jean Norris, New York's first woman judge, who was removed by the appellate division on motion of Referee Seabury.

Although the mayor said he did not want his action to imply that a woman was not suited for the bench, it was understood Thursday in political circles that he passed over the names of at least six prominent women lawyers.

The name of his choice is now with the bar association awaiting approval.

Mrs. Norris was removed on charges of altering a court record and allowing the use of her name in an advertisement.

Evening Bulletin Publisher Is Dead

Philadelphia, July 31.—William L. McLean, 79, owner and publisher of the Evening Bulletin, died Thursday morning at his home, 2817 Queen lane, Germantown, following a long illness.

Mr. McLean had been in poor health for the last year, and during the last six months had been confined to his home. Death came peacefully, with his two sons, Robert McLean and William McLean, Jr.; his daughter, Mrs. John S. Williams, and Mrs. Robert McLean at his bedside.

GHOST HUNTERS MEET AT FARM

Traffic Jam Occurs On Country Road As 600 Hunt For Spook.

Media, July 31 (AP)—Ghost hunting at the John Story farm in Thornebury township continued Thursday night with several thousand citizens of this area storming the place in automobiles. For almost two weeks reports have been made that a ghost appeared on the edge of the farm, scared citizens and then ran laughing into an orchard. Wednesday night more than 500 persons attempted to trap the phantom but failed when the tenant of the farm held the hunters off with a revolver.

Thursday night state police were on duty and refused to allow automobiles to stop. They estimated more than 600 loaded cars passed and repassed from 10 o'clock to midnight. The hunters carried guns, revolvers, clubs and rocks.

Traffic jams appeared at the country cross road for the first time in history.

May Be Lunatic

Although many citizens, including Media merchants, believe the ghost is that of John Story, who was slain two years ago on the farm, police are of the opinion the "phantom" is an escaped lunatic or a big rock that looms in the dark.

The hunters declare, however, a rock could not yell "boo," laugh or run.

NEW DISMISSALS AT HARRISBURG

Secretaries, Household Servants Get Increases In Annual Pay.

Harrisburg, July 31.—Three additional dismissals from the Workmen's Insurance fund, of which W. J. Stiteler, Jr., Pinchot leader, is manager, and two from other departments became known at the capitol Thursday.

G. William Hall, of Bellefonte, assistan chief of the claim division, at $2400 a year; William M. Melick, of Philipsburg, clerk at $1680, and Charles H. Miller, of Middletown, claim adjustor, $1920, were dismissed.

The local Pinchot leader recently gained some publicity in dismissing Meade D. Detweiler, a $2100-a-year engineer, "for economy" and created a new $4080 position for his partner in a coal business now in the hands of receivers. Detweiler is a republican candidate for register of wills in Dauphin county, running on the regualr organization ticket, which Stiteler opposes.

Secretaries Raised

Stiteler's secretary will get a $240 increase, according to the payroll now being made up for August 1, and her sister, employed in another department, will get an increase from $1200 to $1680.

Miss Anna Hitchcock, of Harrisburg, a district adviser in the health department, receiving $2220 a year, has been dismissed. Elmer D Reinert, of 554 Fairthorn street, Philadelphia, was dismissed as an assistant bank examiner. His salary was $1620. A. L. Sporkin, of 1121 Somerville avenue, Philadelphia, a member of the bar, was named as an auditor in the auditor general's department at $1800.

Three members of the governor's staff at the executive mansion were promoted. A cook and a butler were appointed at stewards, one getting an increase of $840 and the other $600. A matron got an increase of $180.

Two Local Nines To Decide Feud

The South-end Stars and the Gettysburg Independents will battle for the championship of Gettysburg on the baseball diamond at the high school playground tonight at 5:45 o'clock. The South-end Stars, the challengers, declare that they have every chance to win, while the Independents claim their organization is much the stronger of the two.

"Lightning" Moser will probably pitch for the South-enders while Maust will be in the box for the Independents.

The young girl was rushed to the Washington County hospital by a passing automobile but she was pronounced dead from a fractured skull almost upon her arrival.

Lesher, who lives in Clearspring, was summoned to appear before Magistrate Richard Sweeney Thursday morning when testimony to determine responsibility for the fatal accident was taken. The crash was investigated by State Officer Markley and Magistrate Sweeney, acting coroner.

COMPROMISE CLAIM ON STATE ROAD BOARD

Frederick—Compromising for $1,000 the Joshua E. B. Zimmerman claim against the state roads commission, attorneys for Mr. Zimmerman and his wife Tuesday withdrew their exceptions to the recent condemnation awards of a sheriff's jury.

Chief Judge Hammond Urner immediately signed an order ratifying the jury inquisition, thereby confirming the award of $650 for the property made June 19. The compromise is of course, apart from coudt proceedings and will take precedence ovef the smaller award.

In addition to paying $1,000 outright to the Zimmermans, the state will pa the cost of proceedings and will also construct two byroads and several gates and entrances on the property, which is about two miles south of Feagaville.

TWO BARNS BURN IN YORK COUNTY

York—Fires in two section of York county, Wednesday evening about 5.30 o'clock, destroyed property estimated to be worth $15,000, the loss being only partly covered by insurance. The property destroyed consisted of the house, barn and all outbuildings on the farm of Chauncey J. Keener, York R. D. 7, in Windsor township, about a mile north of the East Prospect state road, and a large frame bank barn on the property of Harry Hartman, in Loganville borough.

The fire on the Keener farm, which caused estimated damage of $10,000, was reported to have been caused by a blaze starting in a threshing machine. At Loganville, where the damage was estimated at $5,000, a bolt of lightning hit the structure during a severe electrical storm which passed over Loganville, in common with a large portion of York county, Wednesday afternoon.

Squire Hammers Sees Grasshopper Plague

Squire S. S. W. Hamers, who has a reputation in Highland township as a weather prophet, is predicting a plague of grasshoppers for his section that will be the worst that farmers of Adams county have ever known. He says the plague will occur this fall.

The squire, who has dubbed himself the hermit of Highland township, bases his prediction on the fact that last winter being warm, an unusually large number of 'hoppers have been hatched and that even now swarms are to be seen.

He declares they are already damaging the vegetation in his section. Similar trouble from grasshoppers has been reported from Dauphin county in the vicinity of Hershey; however no sections of the east have reported swarms that equal those in the far west, where entire fields of corn are being stripped bare by the insects.

Katherine Mayo, who won international fame as a writer and critic when her book, "Mother India," was published, is in this section gathering material for a story about the life of Sergeant Tim McCarthy, who was slain when he attempted to arrest Marshall Lodge, a man believed to have been insane.

Miss Mayo has previously written accounts of the work of the Pennsylvania state police and she is getting first hand information from former friends and acquaintances of the intrepid officer who was stationed here at one time. She has also visited the sergeant's former haunts in Chambersburg.

Twenty-five children of New York tenement homes said goodbye to temporary homes in Adams county this week and headed back for the metropolis' sweltering streets after spending two weeks in 15 different families in and near Gettysburg.

The placement of the children, of whom there were 20 girls and five boys, was handled through the Gettysburg mothers' club and the transportation from New York to Gettysburg was paid by the New York Tribune Fresh Air fund.

A COMPLETE STOCK OF PHILCO BALANCED TUBES FOR REPLACEMENTS

MOON OF DELIGHT

by Margaret Bell Houston

SYNOPSIS. The veil Juanita Basara wears as cigarette girl in Divitt's gambling house suggests a mystery which Divitt and Molly, his wife, have not penetrated. But Eric Ledbetter tries to tear off her disguise, enraging Gabreau, previously her protector against Umberto. Divitt steals a necklace from Mrs. Belaise, a patron, and later sends Juanita to return it. As Senorita Flores she delights Mrs. Belaise by bringing back the necklace, found, she explains, in the street. Though she refuses the reward, she accepts the ring—his late mother's—which Mrs. Belaise's grandson, Kirk Stanard brings to her hotel. Divitt employs a former associate, the Marquesa Cabrera, to chaperone Juanita, while aiding in his plans to rob the homes that Juanita will visit.

Chapter 14

A KISS IN THE DARK

Carlota stretched out a foot to show Divitt a run in her stocking. "I have no clothes, Spike."

"But you won't need clothes—certainly not for this—if you can't remember my name," Divitt informed her. "I shan't be around, of course, but you and Senorita Flores will be stopped at the Tijon, and I won't have you hollering 'Spike" at me every time you pass through the lobby."

"Forgive, Mister Divitt. It won't happen again."

"Get clothes," said Divitt. "I'll pay for them. I don't want Molly to know anything about you except that I've engaged an aristocratic duenna for Juanita. . . Keep your room in Michel street. It may be useful.

"I'll pay you well, according to what you are worth to me. You know I keep my word."

"I keep my word. I do not double-cross you when I skin up the fire escape with the money. I lose you."

Divitt smiled. "You brought the money here to the roulette wheel. I don't say you double-crossed me. I wouldn't advise you to. One of the things I know about you is that you can't drink or no job."

"A little wine—"

"A little wine makes a babbling goat of you. Do you give me your word? Where's your little gold cross?"

The marquesa hesitated, dived into her bosom, drew out the cross.

Divitt pointed to it. "Swear!"

The marquesa held the cross between her palms. "I swear," she said.

Juanita dressed that night with hands that trembled slightly. Kirk had stayed past his time. Juanita felt that he expected to meet some one else, some member of her family, perhaps—desiring some more definite bond than the necklace. He had left finally, with her half promise to go with him to the Comus ball! Would Divitt allow that?

Juanita tucked Mrs. Belaise's ring in a drawer. Tomorrow she would put it on a cord about her neck. It was beautiful, but it was its touch she loved, like the touch of a friend.

Kirk Stanard would not be in the parlors tonight. He was driving Mrs. Belaise and Lorena to their place in Biloxi. "It's as much to get away from the house next door as to give her the sea air," he had explained. Then supposing Juanita would not understand, had added, "Divitt's Parlors. It's no place for Nelly except in mild doses. . . . You, Senorita, would you like to visit the place?"

Juanita had thought not, adding, "You do not play yourself?" Now she would learn why he stood so passively beside the roulette wheel.

He shook his head. "Not roulette," he answered. "Not after the cotton market all day. That's where I'll take you—to the stock exchange! That's the proper place for a girl brought up on bull fights."

She was glad that Kirk would not be there tonight. Soon there might be, as Molly had indicated, a piquancy in offering cigarettes to him, knowing that he did not know. (Not to Mrs. Belaise—it would alway be difficult with her—but to him.) Something was quickening in here—some bright essential spring that had been choked for days. Tomorrow night, even, she hoped that Kirk would come.

Eric Ledbetter was the first person she saw as she entered the parlors. He sat with a gayly dressed crowd at one of the card tables, a crowd somewhat the worse for gin. Apparently they had just come from some Mardi Gras festivity, for all but one wore bright paper caps.

The one with out the carnival spirit sat at Ledbetter's right, a girl with sleepy eyes and a red wind-blown bob, her cigarette hanging from the corner of her mouth, as she rested chin upon hand. Adrian Fouche was not among them, not did Juanita see Divitt in his place. Gabreau was acting as croupier, and Molly sat in the cashier's cage.

Juanita had made the circuit of the room when Ledbetter spied her and rose, calling in unintelligible jargon. Juanita glanced at Molly, who met her eye without response. Gaberau, behind the roulette wheel, not so far from Ledbetter's table, was watching.

Juanita moved among the tables. There were not many in the parlors. Mardi Gras was devouring everything. . . . Juanita thought of Kirk, riding along the sea-girt road to Biloxi. hSe had been glad that he would not be here. She had not known how keenly she would need his smiling eyes. . . .

Laughter came from Ledbetter's table. The crowd in paper caps were betting on something—not on the cards. Juanita took advantage of their preoccupation. Molly was not observing her. Divitt was absent. Only Gabreau was watching, and Gabreau would not tell.

She laid the tray on a table and went softly out the side door. It das dim in the court. Juanita paused. Divitt might be about—Umberto. . . . She started toward the stair.

Suddenly some one was beside her. Some one with hot, horrible breath was breathing jargon into her ear. Juanita found herself caught and held.

"Let me go!" she commanded, and for an instant it seemed as if she would be obeyed, perhaps from sheer astonishment. Then her veil was thrown aside and Ledbetter's kiss smeared her face. Ledbetter's voice murmured insults. Juanita pressed back his face with her hands, loathing him more than she had loathed Umberto.

"Grosero! Insolente!" she cried, striking his face with her fists. "Hideous pig!"

Ledbetter released her as if she burned him. Juanita flew to the stair. At its top she turned to see Gabreau's squat shape in the parlor door.

The Comus ball! New Orleans gayety . . . color . . . life, Juanita whirls into it tomorrow, trailed by the marquesa.

Court Rule Solves Titles To Antiques Coveted By Wales

Buenos Aires (AP)—The "great furniture mystery" of the British empire trade exhibition ended when a local court held that the statute of limitations had operated to confirm ownership by the man who offered to sell a $500,000 collection to the Prince of Wales.

The pieces, of Hindu origin, are fashioned out of teak and are said to be about 200 years old. Augusto Laserre, a rear admiral in the Argentine navy, bought them in Hungary, but long delays in shipment kept them out of Argentina until 1907. Meanwhile the admiral died.

His widow turned the furniture over to a lawyer whose son, Dr. Jose Narciso Sosa, exhibited the collection at the exposition.

It was there that the Prince of Wales offered $175,000 for the pieces, but the offer was withdrawn when a grandson of the admiral lodged a complaint with the police, disputing Sosa's title. Sosa won the case but he still has the furniture.

An Evening Thought

Happiness lies within ourselves, and it is only by the ethical development of our personality that we can wholly round it out and make it the sweet companion of our days.

Out of the Past

Happenings of Days Gone by as Chronicled in The Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times, the Files Reveal

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Worst Storm in Years Sweeps Over Vicinity, Doing Damage: Crippled telephone service, high waters and heavy damage to field crops and gardens mark the path of the most severe rain and electrical storm that has visited Gettysburg in recent years. The rain fell in torrents and heavy clashes of thunder broke throughout the storm which never abated during the period of an hour. The intensity of the storm is unprecedented in this vicinity in the last fifteen or twenty years.

The barn or Amos Wolf, near Mummasburg, was struck by lightning. Locally uprooted trees, crippled telephone and electric light service, and some little damage by water was reported.

The barber shop of Charles Barbehenn, under the Eagle Hotel, as is usually the case during the heavy rains, was flooded, there being at least two feet of water on the floor.

And Simon Peter followed Jesus, and so did another disciple: that disciple was known unto the high priest, and went in with Jesus into the palace of the high priest.

But Peter stood at the door without. Then went out that other disciple, which was known unto the high priest, and spake unto her that kept the door, and brought in Peter.

Then saith the damsel that kept the door unto Peter, Art not thou also one of this man's disciples? He saith, I am not.

And the servants and officers stood there, who had made a fire of coals, for it was cold; and they warmed themselves: and Peter stood with them, and warmed himself.

The high priest then asked Jesus of his disciples, and of his doctrine.

Then Jesus answered him, I spake openly to the world; I ever taught in the synagogue, and in the temple, whither the Jews always resort; and in secret have I said nothing.

Why askest thou me? ask them which heard me, what I have said unto them; behold, they know what I said.

And when he had thus spoken, one of the officers which stood by struck Jesus with the palm of his hand, saying, Answerest thou the high priest so?

Jesus answered him, If I have spoken evil, bear witness of the evil: but if well, why smitest thou me?

Now Annas had sent him bound unto Caiaphas the high priest.

And Simon Peter stood and warmed himself. They said therefore unto him, Art not thou also one of his disciples? He denied it, and said, I am not.

One of the servants of the high priest, being his kinsman whose ear Peter cut off, saith, Did not I see thee in the garden with him?

Peter then denied again: and immediately the cock crew.—John 18: 15-27.

AT ITS WORST

(From the Public Ledger)

New York tasted gang war at its worst when on Tuesday evening an automobile load of thugs opened fire in a crowded street, seriously wounded a baby in its carriage, killed a boy five years old and left three other children mangled by lead slugs. The gangsters escaped. So did the man they sought to kill. The whole affair is blamed on a bootlegger feud.

Such a shocking occurrence is the inevitable result of gang activities and public apathy toward them. It begins as rivalry for illegal business. It thrives on paid corruption. It grows into murder of rivals. It reaches a climax in such awful outlawry as this baby killing.

There has been much indifference toward gang wars in the belief that so long as one criminal killed another the public was the gainer. But that philosophy was wrong from the beginning, and all sane observers said so. By its very nature gang war cannot forever be confined to gangs. Men callous enough to kill other men become sufficiently ruthless to kill any one, even children. Outlawry knows no limit. This outrageous crime should drive that fact home in every city and town in America. It is the price paid for toleration of gangster rule.

NEW YORK Day by Day by O. O. McIntyre

Paris (By Mail)—As a point of chivalry I will concede French ladies are smartly dressed—although most so habited have escaped me. But I will megaphone from the top pinnacle of the Empire spire that the French gentleman is the worst dressed and generally the most untidy in the world.

I do not refer to the comic strip Frenchman with cone shaped silk hat and high heels for he has almost vanished. I refer to the average man seen along the streets. The boulevards are a shifting confusion of smartly dressed gentlemen, but they are seldom the local boys.

They are Englishmen, Americans and Latin Americans—the Peruvian incidentally is one of the best dressed men in all Paris. It is the Peruvian of all the dandies who gives the proper flick to his full dress tie, the opulent blending to his shirts and ties and a jaunty angle to his chapeaux.

Luza, the Peruvian fashion artist for American magazines, is, by the way, considered one of Paris' most correctly groomed fashion plates. Of all the exhibitions of bad taste in sartorial get-ups the Frenchman leads the parade. And about him is a comic gravity.

He wears a nubbin of a hat perched on his forehead a la Webster's Casper Milquetoast, lavender shaded pantaloons that strike above the ankles, coats of an 1880 vintage with midget lapels, high choke standing collars, a hook-on bow tie and naturally the inevitable stubby umbrella lopped over his arm.

One hears much about the Parisian lady's chic, yet the stranger finds this quality expressed chiefly among the shop girls. It is proverbial that the great style designers of the capital came from the ranks of the midinettes—notably Chaney, one time needle girl, and Schiaparelli, former package deliverer.

Your French dowager is usually a comic opera mess. She is ballooned with heavy silks from which dangle everything from a lorgnette to a kiddie car and her face is splotched up for all the world like a circuse clown. In other words, Parisians know how to dress everybody but themselves.

We taxied over to Tour d'Argent this evening to partake of one of Mons. Frederic's memorable numbered ducks and our palates were keenly whetted for this place de resistance. But the iron shutters had been pulled down. This just happened to be an evening when the staff was indulging in a lay off. Tour l'Argent, a historic place, is like that. If they serve you they serve you well but if they don't feel in the mood, they merely close up shop.

This is a pean for French pain. Bread here is the tastiest in the world. It is small wonder natives can make a full meal solely off of it. The tricycle bread boys may—and do—toss it with dirty hands to the equally dirty pavements, but that doesn't matter. It is still grand. The other morning I saw a pile of it stacked like cord-wood in front of a pension on the avenue de la Observatoire. I pulled my dog away. But a Frenchman back of me wasn't so particular.

Nor do I think any breakfast bread equals the brioche and flakey croisant that comes with petit d'jeuner each morning. To me it surpasses our corn pone and that is at least a reluctant, if not downright unpatriotic, admission.

Ray Long, Jr., burst out with a full blown set of mumps today, which will keep him indoors for a few days. But his indisposition gave me a chance to visit a French toy store and I came away with an armful of dingbats, but at the last moment held out a stereopticon of views of Paris. After all, at my age one has to have something to amuse one's self in Paris. You just can't dodder all the time.

Gilbert White comes over the channel from London this morning to report things are so tough British sailors only have a wife in every other port.

I'm getting a little fed up with the viewpoint of Billy the Boston. His mind is hopelessly one tracked. All he seems to care for in Paris are his master and mistress and about 49 special trees in the Bois.

From a column in the Paris Tribune: "O. O. McIntyre, of Gallipolis, O., has been in town two weeks and not a night life guide has yet asked him to see the wicked sights."

And furthermore I haven't caught a single finger in a cigar clipper, either.

Walter T. Mehring

Democratic Candidate For Prothonotary

At the approaching primaries the voters of Adams county will be called upon to select a candidate for the important office of prothonotary and they can make no mistake in casting their ballot for such men as Walter T. Mehring, of Cumberland township, one of the most popular candidates on the ticket for any office. Mr. Mehring has always been an ardent party worker and up to this time has never held any elected office in the county. It will be recalled that he was on the ticket four years ago for register and recorder and while he had strong opposition made an excellent showing. People in all parts of the county have become better acquainted with him during the past four years and many will show their appreciation of his ability and enterprise by casting their vote for him at the primaries, September 15th. If he be successful then, and again at the general election, he will take office with a full responsibility of the duties thereof. He assures the people of the county that he will give the duties of the office his personal attention and see to it that the work is carried on to the best of his ability. Nothing more could be asked of a man seeking public office. That he can handle the work successfully goes without question as Mr. Mehring has made a success of all his undertakings and will make a success in public office if the voters care to nominate and elect him.—Political Advertising.

GUARDS FORM ON ANCIENT IDEALS

Civil Guard Is To Spain What Mounted Is To Northwest.

By A. Edward Stuntz

Madrid (AP)—Under the motto "honor is the principal jewel," Spain's resplendent civil guardsmen ride and march across the rugged countryside of the new republic with a diligence and discipline inherited from monarchial organizers.

The civil guard is to Spain what the northwest mounted is a Canada or the Texas rangers to the Lone Star state.

The future of the corps became a moot question with proclamation of the republic. Many left republicans insisted the guard be abolished as a remnant of monarchial oppression of the people. This the provisional government refused to do.

Patrol In Couples

Instead General Jose Sanjurjo, one of Spain's most efficient soldiers, was recalled from duty in Morocco and given its command.

Organized in 1844 by the Duke of Ahumada the guard now numbers 30,000 men. Twenty-nine divisions of a thousand men and 200 horses each are stationed in various portions of the Spanish peninsula. To another division of 1,000 falls the constantly mobile duty of guarding railroad trains.

Life for the guardsmen, mounted or afoot, generally is a lonely and thankless routine. Always patrolling in pairs, they are distributed among the towns and villages dotting Spain's bleak and mountainous landscape from the Mediterranean to the Atlantic, from Gibraltar to the Pyrenees.

Strikes, brawls, incipient riots place them automatically on 24 hour call. Even the public fiestas, football games and bull fights mean work for the guards. More often than not they help municipal police handle the crowds.

Uniform Is Striking

A black patent-leather, three-cornered hat, sets the guard off from other fighting corps. It is a proud heritage from former times.

The rest of his uniform is an olive drab set off by scarlet cuffs and collar. The mounted men wear black patent leather boots and gleaming silver spurs.

The guards are armed with rifles, pistols and sabres. Their favorite method of quelling disorder is to bear down ahorse in a sabre charge.

Counterfeit Plot At St. Louis Found

St. Louis, July 31 AP)—A counterfeit plot was disclosed here Wednesday wtih the arrest of six men and a woman and confiscation of $13,929 in spurious bills and printing apparatus. Discovery of the plot was ascribed to a 24-year-old confectionaery proprietress, who Sunday brought about the arrest of William Cronin, 47, of St. Louis, as he attempted to pass a counterfeit $10 bill.

Federal authorities and police, after quizzing Cronin Tuesday, searched a house here Wednesday and found the $13,920 in counterfeit $10 federal reserve bills hidden under the floor in the attic rafters.

Russians Televise 2 Images At Once

Leningrad, Russia (AP)—Russian scientists also are joining in the drive to make television a success.

Announcement from the laboratory of the Physico-Technical institute of the Academician Joffe is to the effect that the scope of its television equipment has been increased so that two images can be televised at once instead of only one as formerly.

Certain success also has been attained in picking small scenes where not too great detail is required.

"USELESS" JAIL RAZED

Keensburg, Ill. (AP)—When does a jail become useless? Keenburg's bastile hasn't had a customer since 1916, so the village board has decided that's proof enough. Therefore the jail is being torn down.

Great Lakes Travel Remaining Brisk

Chicago (AP)—If there is a depersion, Great Lakes boat lines aren't aware of it—at least not at their Chicago ports.

Passenger vessels plying the lake routes are carrying larger numbers of passengers than ever, reports show. Between 5,000 and 10,000 persons depart daily from Chicago for other ports on the Great Lakes, while "moonlight cruises" on excursion boats and evening spins in speed-boat taxis are more popular than ever.

Loat officials attribute the increase in business to the attractions of "rail and water" combination tours.

SUNDOWN STORIES

MONKEY FLOWERS

By Mary Graham Bonner

"We're going to see some monkey flowers now," said the Little Black Clock, "and then we must go for an airplane ride."

Well, John and Peggy did not know anything about monkey flowers, but they certainly would be interested in seeing them, and an airplane ride was always fun.

They stopped by a swampy piece of ground near a stream. There they saw some stems about two feet high with leaves ragged at the edges like tiny saws. And upon these stems were violet colored flowers with wide open little faces.

"Years ago they received the name of monkey flowers," said the Clock, "because people thought their faces looked like tiny monkeys, and their Latin name means monkey flower."

The swamp was filled with insects buzzing about the monkey flowers and other foliage and the insects were carrying pollen so that more flowers could grow.

Peggy and John watched how quickly and cleverly they did their work.

"If we went traveling at great speed all the time," the Little Black Clock said, "we would miss so much that is going on.

"But we've been seeing some of the flowers that grow in wild places and hearing their stories, and now I think we should take a quick, quick trip for a change.

"Just at the other side of this swamp we'll find the pilot. He'll be waiting for us."

And there he was, waiting for them. The Little Black Clock and John and Peggy climbed inside. It was as though thousands of insects were buzzing now—and they were off—up in the air.

Tomorrow—"In the Air."

GUM

can hide in CLEAR gasolines

but TYDOL Gasolines are 99 28/100% Gum-Free

Seemingly pure gasolines may contain gum. It is absolutely impossible to tell, simply by looking at gasoline, whether it is gum-bearing or gum-free.

For years, gum has been hiding in hastily or improperly refined gasolines. Sticking valves. Clogging feed lines. Binding carbon into hard crusts.

Both Hi-test TYDOL and TYDOL-ETHYL are actually made 99 28/100% gum-free by new equipment costing millions. All other gasolines are not necessarily gummy gasolines.

But how can you tell? You know you are safe with TYDOL. Why take a chance?

Change to TYDOL today...Super-power, high-test, anti-knock ... gum-free and trouble-free.

Tide Water Oil Sales Corporation, Norway St., and M. & P. R. R., York, Pa.

Use ANTI-CARBON VEEDOL with Anti-Gum TYDOL

VEEDOL fights carbon like TYDOL fights gum.

VEEDOL is 99.1% carbon-free. New equipment costing $2,000,000 cleans out the carbon.

A single carbon-removing job may cost you as much as your entire oil bill for a year. Use Anti-Carbon VEEDOL and save this money.

Drain and refill today. Anti-Carbon VEEDOL plus Anti-Gum TYDOL will keep your motor clean as you drive your car.
